AN ATTEMPT TO RAISE THE DEAD THAT NEVER LIVED.

Dr. Starr Claims That He Never Owed

Dr. Starr Claims That He Never Owed the Government a Cent in His Life. In 1879, certain mail contracts were let to one C. C. Frayer, of Washington. On these Dr. William M. Starr and Mr. Mason were surethes. Owing to some irregularity in the letting of the contracts, Dr. Starr suggested to the government that for its safety and that or the superior directly the same due them and then to Mr. Frayer, the almoint remaining for him.

Postmaster General-Keys, under the Hayes administration, accepted the proposition. 1,000,60 sime die them and then to Mr. Fibyer, we amount reminiming for him.

Postmaster tieneral-Keys, under the Hayes administration, accepted the proposition and protosmeet it a was plan of procedure. The contracts were executed under this new agreement. A question was raised at the time as to the effect of this plan upon the strettes. In Keys affirmed that the sureties were released in as much as the government and in ris own power the means of preventing anyloss to itself. Mr. Frayaer remained in the bosiness during the whole four years, or until the contracts were all extlest, and reiet to other parties. After this, Frayaer was also released by the government, which appears in the government. W. Serretary and means the government which appears in the government. W. Serretary effor me this ainth g.
